Dear Ms. Hesse:

I do not like the Proposed Final Judgment in the Microsoft case. It does little to prevent continuation of their monopoly and little to punish their past behavior. It also appears to offer little enforcement. We are an average family using a PC for word processing, games, desk top publishing, etc. I would like to have more options of programs and more ability to mix and match. I think it would be in the public interest to have more competition.

Sincerely,

Annette Mercer
